When the word village comes many people think of a rural place having problems. In many countries of the world the villages do not have even the basic facilities like water, gas and electricity for human survival. When it comes to Spain then its villages are modern and they offer a lifestyle that is even better than the urban lifestyle of many countries.

The villages of Sierra Nevada can be used as a role modern in that respect. There are alpine style buildings in such villages. There is a village named Pradollano in the area which is even having a complex with four storeys parking underground. That makes up a total capacity of accommodating around 2500 cars within a single building.

A great aspect about the villages of Spain is that they have excellent medical facilities. Similarly there are day care centers in many villages for facilitating the visitors. There are banks with ATM machines. Similarly there are restaurants, hotels, coffee shops, bars, night clubs and excellent hotels for staying in the villages of Spain. The historical villages of Spain are well preserved in the similar manner. One can enjoy the rural life of Spain the same way the urban life can be enjoyed.

Some of the villages of Spain are so modern that they offer all kinds of sports activities. For example the visitors can enjoy playing golf, swimming, horse riding, sauna and workouts in such villages during their stay. Similarly some villages have boutiques that offer all kinds of latest fashionable outfits. There are gift shops and superstores that are as good as any in the world. Along with everything the great thing is that the villages of Spain are at great locations. There are many villages around rivers and on the top of mountains. The people staying in them can have great views of the rural Spain.

Most of the villa in lloret de mar are easily approachable by roads and trains. The only difference in the Spanish urban and rural life is of atmosphere. The cities of Spain are lively and the villages are peaceful in comparison. Similarly everything is fresh in the Spanish villages. The people that visit any of the Spanish villages have a unique feeling. The reason is that they get everything in the Spanish villages which should be there in a village along with having all the modern facilities.
