Malaga is one of Spainâ€™s most popular holiday destinations whether for the locals or foreign tourists. With a strategic location at Costa del Sol, the beautiful sandy beaches and wonderful climate offer tourists all their hearts desire for a great holiday.

Accessibility

Malaga can be easily reached as it is Costa del Solâ€™s the first port for all entries into Andalusia. It is the provinceâ€™s major coastal city with a lot of original charm and culture in the midst of its booming tourism. There are thousands of tourists who fly into Malaga via its international airport to enjoy the numerous holiday resorts around Malaga; these include Fuengirola, Torremilinos and Puerto Banus.

Malaga can also be reached by road; there are plenty of local buses which come by ferrying dozens of tourists every day. Many locals drive to Malaga along the well structured highways for a splendid weekend throughout the year.

Tourist Attractions

Malaga has plenty of beautiful sights to offer tourists; its rich history and fine arts attract tourists like bees to honey. It is the birthplace and home of the talented artist, Picasso. Hence, there are numerous Picasso art masterpieces displayed in this city.

Tourists would enjoy Malaga with the many wonderful historical sites that exude of a rich Moorish presence. One of the most popular Moorish sites would be at Seville which is Andaluciaâ€™s capital. This cosmopolitan town has a lot of interesting Moorish architecture such as the Alcazar which is a renowned Mudejar palace with an impressive architecture. There is also a huge cathedral that is purportedly one of Europeâ€™s largest.

Natural beauty

Malaga exudes natural beauty inside out. Situated in Andalucia, Malaga enjoys the beautiful natural landscapes. The sandy beaches of Costa del Sol draw many visitors every weekend especially in the summer where the crowd can be humongous.

There are amazing cliffs on the east side offering panoramic view over the sea along the coastal roads. It is here where one gets enthralled with the majestic Sierra Almijara Mountains conjoining with the calm blue Mediterranean Sea. A coastal drive with this scenic surrounding makes it most memorable. One would enjoy great sunsets over the natural landscapes which would be imprinted on the minds of beholders.

It is a smart choice to make Malaga the holiday base where one can move around outside Malaga to enjoy the best of a Spanish holiday. One would enjoy the best of Granada with impressive ancient structures and landscapes through a day trip and the best of Seville on another day trip.
