Atlanta is a wonderful location for a fun-filled family trip. There are so many things to do in Atlanta Georgia and the surrounding region that you will be sure to depart the area but still have a list of Atlanta attractions that you'll want to check out on your subsequent getaway. There are a few spots, though, that you simply must not miss whenever you come to visit.

The World of Coca-Cola is a great spot to take the family to learn facts about the history of the drink and the brand. It's more than simply historically fascinating though, since you can see a totally functioning bottling line, go to the 4D movie theater with moving 3D seats, or try out one of the 60 different types of Coca-Cola that are produced around the world. They also have the largest assortment of Coke memorabilia and an incredible pop culture gallery.

You can't come to Atlanta without going to Fernbank Museum. The permanent exhibits, like the dinosaurs in Giants of the Mesozoic and even Sensing Nature which reveals how our senses play a role in the interpretation of our environment, are usually a favorite to children and older people alike. They also also have unique displays that are there for a set time. In addition, the five-story IMAX Theater always has something for the whole family to experience.

One other popular Atlanta attraction is the zoo. The Atlanta Zoo is open 363 days a year and is the best spot to view animals from every part of the world, including giraffes from the African plains, gorillas from the rain forest, as well as pandas out of the Asian woodland. You can see just about any type of animal you are searching for at the Atlanta Zoo. Additionally, they host many different varieties of activities and learning programs throughout the year.

One of the newest Atlanta attractions may be the Georgia Aquarium. This is among the biggest aquariums on this planet and is home to around 500 distinct types of marine life. The aquarium is split up in multiple galleries which center around the Atrium. One of the most remarkable creatures within the aquarium is found in the cold water quest section - a Beluga whale.

You'll discover almost any marine creature you are looking for in the Georgia Aquarium. They also have a fantastic experience called Journey with Gentle Giants. In this attraction you'll be able to go swimming or dive with the biggest fish in the world, the whale shark. There is an extra charge for this adventure but it's a once in a lifetime opportunity.

You can find numerous downtown Atlanta attractions that will amuse and educate travelers to the city. You'll be able to come and wander through history at the World of Coca-Cola, view an extinct giant at Fernbank museum, watch the Pandas play in the Atlanta Zoo or visit the world's biggest aquarium. After you are done with these adventures you will be returning for more.

With a little research you can plan a vacation in Atlanta that will include all of the sights that interest you the most. Moreover, you can make sure that the entire family has a nice time in the city. It may take a little effort ahead of time, but you will be glad you spent the time when you get there.
