Article Side

Why Use a Domain Name by Peter D

Article published on January 4th 2012 | Domains

Are you aiming to set up a website for your business? If you are new internet industry, you need to do a detailed research on how to create an identity online. The first thing you need to do as a user is to think of a Domain Name. So what exactly are these names and what is the main purpose of having these names. These names serve as the address of websites. It is the name the user will type in the address bar to visit your website. A Domain Name is primarily used to make it easy for users to find a website. This is because every name has an IP address linked to it, which can be really tough for users to remember.

Picking a right domain for your website is crucial for the success of your business. Therefore it is rightly said that choosing a domain needs a lot of research. So what makes a right domain? When selecting a domain the user must make sure that the name is short, simple and exclusive. This is because web visitors usually find it tough to recall lengthy names. Another thing the user must make sure is that the name should be business related. This is because a business related name is likely to give your website better ratings in search engines. For example if you manage a business that provides cars on rent, the domain should have certain words that are related to cars on rent.

Once the domain is selected the next step is to register it. Domain Registration is a process by which a user becomes the authorized owner of that particular domain. The main motive behind registering a domain is to protect the name and make sure others cannot use it. The companies that offer Domain Registration services also offer their customers with the ability to check domain availability.

Setting up a website and registering a domain is very simple and a cost-effective process that can help your business to grow. A business website can provide your clients with complete information on products or services you offer. These names not only bring professional genuineness to businesses, but also give them respectability. Creating a website is one of the things you can do with a registered domain, but many people also buy domains to resell. Domain reselling is also one of the most interesting businesses to have come up in the web industry.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/domains-articles/why-use-a-domain-name.htm - Article Side

Peter D - About Author:

Author is expert content writer for a domain registration and reseller hosting services. Visit Net4.in for detail information on a Web Hosting and domain registration partner services.

Article Keywords:
Domain registration, domain name registration, web hosting, website hosting

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!