In an effort to study professional courses, the students are these days required to appear in entrance exams. For professional courses of importance such as the medical and engineering, people need to go through the entrance exams that are conducted on yearly basis in the country. Students, who are interested for studying in medical colleges and pursue the MBBS courses, need to appear in a few entrance exams like All India Pre-Medical Test for various colleges, AIIMS and few other entrance exams.

The AIPMT is a test that is conducted on a national basis, for admissions into the medical colleges all over India. 15% of the seats are reserved in almost all the colleges in different states in India for the students who are qualifying in the AIPMT. This exam is popular because it allows the students to take admissions in the medical colleges of their choice. Due to this flexibility, the students are appearing the entrance exam.

The competition is going to further increase in the coming year for AIPMT 2012, when students will be appearing this test on the 1st Sunday of April 2012. The large number of students filling up the form for the exam is going to increase the competition further. It is therefore quite important for people to look into few aspects so as to better their chances of scoring good ranks in the entrance.

Completing the syllabus – The syllabus for the pre-medical test will include the courses and subjects from the 10+2 classes and these are physics, chemistry and botany and zoology. Since the questions will be from these subjects, the students are required to be thorough with different topics and should cover all the portions. As because there is no certainty about the topics from which the questions will be put, so people need to cover all the topics, at least once.

Practice – Looking at the pattern of questions, the basic aim of the aspiring candidates should be to attempt all the questions in the given time limit. The questions will be mostly of the objective type in the AIPMT 2012. Students will be required to attempt the questions within a given time limit, and therefore, they will need to divide their time for different subjects. This will ensure that the maximum number of questions is attempted and there will be a higher probability of attempting the questions correctly. Also, there is a point about giving adequate time to each question so that there is no hurry. Such a time management is possible only if the candidates have practised in an environment that equals the final exam.

Eligibility criteria – Although many people will suppose that the most important thing required to get into the medical colleges is to study the subjects and prepare well, yet the filling up of the application form has a lot of importance. It is only after the application form is filled up correctly by satisfying all the eligibility criteria, people will be eligible to sit in the exam, and then only they will be able to take admissions. It is therefore, quite important that the students should be knowledgeable about the eligibility criteria, in order to get into medical colleges of their choice through the AIPMT 2012.

The exam of AIPMT 2012 will be a big step for the students who want to become successful doctors in future. So, they should tread this step with caution and care, to make success highly probable.
