Cartoons have their own crazy traits. They do not leave a single kid without becoming a fan. One of the most common scenarios that we often see in peoplesâ€™ homes is, children watching cartoons in Television for at least three to four hours. Though, over the years, cartoons have changed significantly, but they are still successful in leaving their effects on kids.

Studies have revealed that kids start watching cartoons on TV at an early age of six months, and by the time they reach the age of two or three, they become hardcore viewers. Parents often view this as a problem because most of the kids are found to become addictive to the TV mostly for watching cartoon programs. Like everything has some pros and cons, so do, cartoons.

Apart from all the disadvantages of watching cartoon, the positive points that make cartoons worth watching are as follows:

â€¢ It helps the working parents the most because they can do a lot of work by getting their kids involved with the cartoon programs that are being telecast on TV.

â€¢ Kids at every age level learn a variety of things. When they watch educational cartoons, they get to learn many things that are beyond the parentsâ€™ imagination. Toddlers learn numerous words, objects and their meanings as well by watching such cartoon programs. It also helps them to enhance the cognitive knowledge in the young kids. Many times, it helps the kids to learn many things before starting to climb the ladder of their educational career. They easily take up many things and try to speak and conduct themselves in a fine way.

â€¢ It also helps to improve their vocabulary. Kids love trying out different things. Educational cartoons help them to try various languages while interacting with others. Those, who study in vernacular medium schools, can learn good English with the help of those cartoon shows.

â€¢ It enhances the imagination level of the kids. It also helps them to become more creative. When they watch cartoons that try to do things in different ways Therefore, sometimes it is pointless to always restrict kids from watching cartoons, but parents should also make sure that their kids are watching the right thing.
