The Enterprise Learning Summit is a place where leaders meet to build smarter organizations. This encompasses vast arenas of learning ranging from HR and workforce management for capability enhancement to re-tooling your workforce for the 2020 workplace. With the present cut-throat competition, it is an age characterized by complexity and change, the Enterprise Learning Summit empowers individuals and organizations to thrive.

The Enterprise Learning Summit hosts leaders from top learning organizations that are all at the forefront of this change. This event brings leaders and speakers as well as top management from the most elite business groups to share their learning initiatives and best practices. Hear from top learning organizations like Salesforce, NASA, Cisco Systems, Starbucks, IBM, AT&T and Veteranâ€™s Affairs University as they share tactics for tackling complex learning challenges to achieve top enterprise performance.

The Summit is an event for leading executives, directors, CEOâ€™s and legislative leaders to meet, learn, and network. Here attendees can learn from over 60 industry experts, analysts and practitioners over two days.

In the future, talent shortages across critical skills will become a reality. Tomorrowâ€™s employees want the best technology, work flexibility and a borderless workplace. Join Jay Cross, principal, Internet Time Alliance, Nick van Dam, Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu LTD, Karie Willyerd, Co-Author of the â€œ2020 Workplace: How Innovative Companies are Attract, Develop and Keep Tomorrowâ€™s Employe Todayâ€• and Joe DiDonato, Elearning! Media Group. At the conference hear from this pannel how to prepare for the social network era, critical talent shortages, and the new rules of leadership. The panel will also discuss the changing role of leaders in the new corporate environment and how this impacts the enterprise learning process. Speakers shall reveal new methodologies as a toolbox for undertaking new organizational learning initiatives.
