The two main bodies that make the syllabus for all the schools in India are cbse and ICSE. All schools whether public or private, have to adopt either of the boards and follow its course structure in all its sections. However, these two bodies conduct exams only for standard X and XII and papers for rest of the standards are set internally by the teachers of the respective schools. Because of this reason, the board examinations in class X as well as XII are very crucial and are conducted at a national level.

It is not difficult to pass with good percentage of marks in the X class board examinations provided the right strategy is followed, preparation is done well, and a number of X class sample papers are solved. There are a very limited number of students who are well prepared with basics and the concepts of different subject. The rest who are in majority always require additional practice. This practice is not of any use if X class sample papers are not practiced. For the batch of students who have a good amount of grey matter in their brains, X class sample papers are helpful but not to the extent to which these sample papers are helpful to the latter batch of the students.

Class XII exams are definitely held after class X board exams and hence it is very important to prepare well when giving boards for the first time, i.e. in class X. Because of all this, in addition to the main course books, there are X class sample papers, guess papers, etc available in the market as well as on the net. Every year additions are made to these X class sample papers based on the guidelines issued by the two boards.

X class sample papers are helpful in the manner that they provide the students with types of questions asked in the board exams, marks allotted to each, answers to important questions, tricks of solving questions, and different ways of answering the same question. Due to all these reasons and additional knowledge provided by the sample papers, X class sample papers are bought by all studentsâ€™ weather intelligent or weak. Another reason to this is that Practice is never enough and a human being can never be satisfied. Those who are weak, think they should practice as much as they can in order to score decent marks and the ones who are intelligent are never convinced that they donâ€™t need to practice more. Hence, sample papers are bought by all types of students.
