When we look at the earth we find that there are three major type of rocks found. The first is the Igneous Rock, Then the Metamorphic Rocks and finally the Sedimentary Rock. The strength of rocks is no doubt the best, as we are all aware that most of the metals are extracted from rocks called ores. Therefore one can conclude that rocks are one of the hardest elements known to man in planet earth. However we would like to spend time of the Sedimentary Rock. What is it? Well as the name refers itâ€™s a collection of sediments and rocks particles which is blow from the winds all over the earth and then this settles the base of waters. Waters like to rivers, seas etc. Over millions of years of settling of one layer over the other thereby forming very hard rocks.

Just as layers of any aspect of life or may be even an attitude which years together form one over another till it becomes and hard and difficult to remove since it forms into a rock. Therefore, while in academic field one should take correction in positive manner and spend fruitful time and remove the settling of certain attitudes from forming rocks. These could even be a negative attitude towards homework. As we all know that efforts taken in the early stages of life do result better performance too in the future. Yes, there is exception; too however, in most generalized cases the results are therein.
