Finding a Right Book for Yourself by Paul Smith

Article published on April 3rd 2012 | Education

We all know that books are the best friend of a person, but in the era of increasing internet you can hardly find a person reading a book. With so many websites coming up each day the approach of people toward books has decreased to a huge extent, as whatever they want to know, now they can know about it from internet. Leave alone the elder even the kids approach for internet for their every bit of a problem has increased.

The main reason behind the success of internet among the children to this extent is we â€˜the parentsâ€™ as because if we â€˜the parentsâ€™ will not read books ourselves how can we educate our kid to do the same. So if we want our kids to read books we should start them first.

The main problem faced while reading a book lies in the very starting itself and that is choosing â€˜the oneâ€™ as we are not sure which one we want to read, a philosophy book or a Politic Book. But if we move a little wisely we can definitely find a book of our choice.

One of the most important factors which comes on the top of the list while choosing a book for ourselves is to look for the one we would love to read. Which means, if a person is trying to start up with the habit of reading books than he / she should select books on those topic which entertains him, be it on anything like a Fiction Book, politics book or a book which will help us in learning some new skill like photography book.

â€˜Read what is there in second pageâ€™, you might find it idiotic but reading the second page of a book can help you in knowing if you will like it or not, and thus you can save yourself from investing on the one which will end lying on shelf (as it is books price in India have reached the seventh sky, then why to waste money on one we will not read).

The next and very important point which can help you is, while reading the second page check how many words are there which you are unable to understand and if the counting has crossed the number of five then look for some other book (a bit easier then the earlier one)

After applying these points choosing a book for yourself will be easier, but the books price in India can make you rethink if you still want to purchase them or not.

But we have a solution for this problem of your as well. â€˜Online books store in Indiaâ€™ yes you heard it right the various online books store can help you in getting a book you would love to read at a very low price and that to at your door step.

So what are you waiting for now, go and grab a book of you choice and at price you can get nowhere.
