The Central Board of Secondary Education is popularly known as CBSE and it is responsible for preparing the syllabus for all sections of all public and private schools that follow the CBSE board. Except for standard 10 and 12, the examinations are conducted internally within each school and CBSE plays the role of provider of syllabus only. But when it come to class 10 and 12, even the examinations are conducted by CBSE and that too at a national level.

This means the challenge of each student is not limited to his school mates only, but is more expanded to the students of all the schools. I.e. a champion may be just an average performer at national elves. There can be many reasons for this, such as low motivation, peer pressure, stress, and lack of adequate study material. Most of these are physiological issues and hence can be tackled with talking and proper counselling.

It is also very true that whatever comes in the CBSE board examinations, Is never out of the course books, but still there is no harm to refer to additional sources such as CBSE board sample papers, guess papers, extra tuitions, coaching classes, etc. In all these additional sources of learning, CBSE board sample papers are the most appropriate and demanded in the market. The reason behind this is that CBSE board sample papers include the main CBSE board sample papers of the previous few (at least 10) year. This makes these papers to be more reliable than any other source since by looking at the format of the papers, the type of questions asked, etc a student can very well understands the important and the unimportant topics in the subject. This would enable him to prepare well and better. He can now concentrate on important topics more than the ones that are not important.

This is not all; CBSE board sample papers also have a summary of all the chapters of the respective subjects. Hence if one needs t revise a chapter, he doesnâ€™t need to open the main book and read those 10-15 page long chapters, he can simply read the summary of 2-3 pages and all the important topics would be covered with great ease. With this, CBSE board sample papers also provide the student with simple tips and tricks of solving/answering questions. Hence it can be said that CBSE board sample papers are not only the papers of previous years, but it is a capsule form of what to read how to read, what procedure to follow and therefore, how to be better prepared for board exams.
