Music Education in School Can Help Kids Improve Reading Ability

by Osa Webmasterone

Article published on January 2nd 2012 | Education

Music does not only mean singing or listening to songs. Music has the capability to turn you on even when you are feeling low. It helps the most to change your mood. You can express all your feelings through music. It is not only a blend of different sounds and vibrations, but also affects your mind in a positive way. In fact, your taste of music reveals what your nature is.

Many people might are unaware of the fact that music can help the students to enhance their reading skills. A study was done between two groups of students, one group that learn music and the other who does not learn music. At the end of the year, the examined results showed that the group of students who learn music are appreciably better with their stock of vocabulary and verbal sequencing scores as compared to the group of students who does not learn music. A music teacher or parents of the student who learns music can find the difference between the student and any other student who does not learn music. It does not only help to improve the vocabulary of the children but also help them to become better in their education and score high in their exams. It helps them in the whole round development of the students in their education. Music helps to enhance different kinds of skills in a child such as communication skills, study skills and cognitive skills which are of use in every part of the curriculum.

In most of the schools, these days, music education has become a mandatory subject. Upto a level every student is compelled to take it as a subject, whereas after a point of time it is left to them whether they want to take the subject or not, which also can be called as an optional subject. The school authorities have made it compulsory because it has been proved in many studies that music helps a lot in the educational development of the kids. It has also been found out that children who have learnt music socialize more than the children who have not learnt.

Though, music is kind of hereditary but a little much of effort can make anybody a singer. Since, there is no age to learn music, so anybody at any time can learn it. Therefore, parents should encourage their children to learn music.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/education-articles/music-education-in-school-can-help-kids-improve-reading-ability.htm - Article Side

Osa Webmasterone - About Author:
This article has been posted by a school guide of OnlineSchoolAdmissions.Com, who also provides free of cost counseling to parents on school admissions. A visit to the site lets parents know about the a Schools in madurai or a Assisi vidyaniketan public school ernakulam of their choice. They can also search for a Bal bhavan public school as per their choice and fill up the school application forms online.

Article Keywords:
Schools in madurai ,Assisi vidyaniketan public school ernakulam , Bal bhavan public school

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!