According to vastu everything should be kept in positive direction in children's room. This type of surroundings results in creative thinking and good health. This type of room is the fun and joy for children where they love to spend most of their time. The child can grow and can lead happy and prosperous life in such environment. The room of the children should be in west direction according to vastu shastra. The location of the bed should be in south-west direction where the head should be in south or east direction.

The door of the kids' room should be in the eastern or the northern direction. Its reality that color has a great impact on mood and every aspect of life. Green color is highly recommended for children as it gives freshness, peace and increases brain power. TV and computer are not required in children's room and if it is necessary TV should be placed in east corner and computer in north direction. Never make use of prickly lights and spot lights because it may lead to mental tension. At present era designing a child's bedroom is very challenging with the speed as children are growing. Beautifully designed rooms and a perfect balance of practicality and creativity can result to appealing to parents and children as well.

The best way to decorate a child room is to decorate theme or color scheme. You should also keep in mind before designing your child's room that whether you are doing a boy's room or a girl's. Colors, shapes, qualities and outlines are connected with a variety of mood and emotions. Certain colors can make us serene while others stimulate us in the right edge of attitude and frame of mind. A place where we spend lot of time in thinking and decision making work, there we should create a cognitive environment.

The accessories used for the room should maintain positive and constructive memories and also pull you towards home. This is not applicable in child cases but adult are also affected by the surrounding. The children are affected by the environment so we should be careful while designing room for kids. The children should also be provided with an adequate amount of space in the room so that they can move without restraint.
