AIEEE stands for All Indian Engineering Entrance Examination and this test was previously conducted as paper test, but now the test is partially conducted online and it is expected to be conducted online 100% in the coming years. It has been predicted that online examinations are going to be the future in India since it is easier to conduct exams online as compared to traditional method of examination. It is also cost-effective since paper, transportation and printing charges are eliminated.

Now, the question that would be arising in our minds is whether online version of AIEEE will be beneficial for the students and even some parents doubt whether there are resources available for enabling the students to practice for the online version of AIEEE. Answer to these doubts is that AIEEE online test is more beneficial to the students because they can answer each question at a faster pace as compared to answering through OMR sheet, wherein they will have to shade the correct option with the help of pencil. Above all, students can change the answer in online format, while it is somewhat difficult to erase the selected option in an OMR Sheet. The second question is with respect to resource for preparing for online test and there are efficient coaching centres enabling students to take up practice test for AIEEE online test.

By taking up practice tests like AIEEE online and IITJEE Online, students can evaluate their performance in such a way that they can identify their strengths and weaknesses so that they can work on their weaknesses. Some of these resources enable the students to practice for other entrance examinations pertaining to MBA, bank exam, etcâ€¦ They offer free practice test series and paid practice test series as well. There are options like mini test, full test and all that is to be done by the students is to register with these sites free of cost and they can take up tests like IITJEE online practice test, Bank exam test, etcâ€¦ by logging in to these sites.

Making use of online resources for preparing to AIEEE online test would be the smartest way for preparing to the exam. While taking offline mock test or preparation tests, students will have to physically visit the coaching centre for which they will have to waste their precious time and energy.

The growth of internet technology has brought about great changes in our life styles and education sector is no exception to this. Taking up free online tests can enable the students to improve their knowledge and confidence for facing the actual examination.
