Pre Schools in Mumbai, Pune and Ahmedabad Aiding in Child Development Before Schooling by Rajnish Mehan

Article published on February 23rd 2012 | Education

With the aim of exploring various topics such as drawing, music, chess, tennis, and other such extracurricular activities and socialising in the small children, the preschool concept is being adopted in various schools. A preschool aims at providing a broader perspective to the child, beyond what a play school is able to provide. For practical purposes, such types of school have lower kindergarten and upper kindergarten classes apart from the play school, so that the kids are ready to start their schooling from the class one in different primary schools.

The basic aim of pre schools in Mumbai have been to help in this particular endeavour. They allow the students to go for the variety of knowledge and preparations so that they are able to learn the basics of education. Alphabets, numbers, simple writing techniques, mathematical calculations, and different types of intelligible games are common compositions of the teachings in such pre schools in Mumbai.

These schools have the necessary staff and trained teachers who understand the mindset of the kids. They can impart the education in the given topics in a playful environment, so that the receptive capacity of the kids is quite high. They are able to learn to concentrate, are more receptive, become less aggressive and can learn things faster. The teachers in the pre schools in Pune are well versed in the handling kids of such small age groups and understanding their needs.

The merit of such pre schools is such that they give a homely environment and at the same time help the kids in learning the basics of education. This kind of teaching atmosphere in the pre schools in Pune helps the students in catching up with the teachings in the school quickly. Since the foundation of English writing and hearing is laid down in the pre schools in Ahmedabad, the kids are able to go into the ICSE or CBSE boards with ease.

The pre schools aim at making the kids comfortable in the latter years of their schooling careers, thereby making them proficient when they go to higher classes. Apart from the basics in studies, the kids are also good enough in various extracurricular activities. Due to the ample scope of socialising and mingling with others, they have the advantage of not having inhibitions when it comes to the performances outside their homes. They can dance, sing, perform, sketch, speak, and do many other things, only because the pre schools in Mumbai or other places have trained them to shed their fears.

The target of such schools is an all round development of the children and moulding their mindset and psychology to face the days in the school. Parents are welcoming such concepts of child development because they also find significant changes in their kids. After the kids start going to the various pre schools or play schools, they have a broadening of their perspective. And there is a marked change in the behaviour of the kids which helps them also, along with the ease of managing the children by the parents.
