Schools of Faridabad: Making the Leaders of Tomorrow by Manishpaull

Article published on July 3rd 2012 | Education

Faridabad, the neighboring city of Indiaâ€™s capital Delhi is also the largest city of the state of Haryana. Faridabad is located in the northern region of India. It is one of the major industrial hubs of Northern India. With the impressive 83% of average literary rate and male and female literary rate being 89.90% and 75.20% respectively, the city is one of the greatest examples of growing literary and educated India.

Faridabad is home to a number of reputed and dynamically working schools, colleges and other prestigious institutes of the country. The reputed YMCA University of Science and Technology and Manav Rachna College of Engineering are also situated in Faridabad. There are many other private universities which provide the under graduate and post graduate courses.

The schools of Faridabad are equally notable and renowned as its colleges. The schools are affiliated either with the CBSE or ICSE board. There are dozens of considerable schools for the children of different age groups. The Schoolsâ€™ campus area is well situated, away from the polluted industrial zones. Right from the infrastructure to the school transport facilities to the studentsâ€™ safety measures everything is of highest quality.

The school curriculum and academic program is matchless. These schools take pride for giving a new definition to the todayâ€™s stressful study methods and teaching processes, by starting a new age of stress free yet refined learning with new techniques and methods without losing the age old values. These schools have spacious classrooms with full ventilation system. Proper sports area with large playground, hygienic and affordable cafeteria, air conditioned computer labs with networking, different language learning courses and labs with juniorsâ€™ and seniorsâ€™ library where or could find a large quantity of books related to vast number of study topics.
