Selecting the right school for your kid is a tough decision which needs to be taken prudently. As a parent you should be responsible and careful because a wrong selection can jeopardize your kidâ€™s future.

First, you need to decide about residential or boarding school. Those who are into transferrable jobs often opt for the latter option. Different schools follow their own educational boards, sometimes it may be ICSE or CBSE or some local board. Thus, it helps to know about different boards and the type of course curriculum followed by them.

There are many parents who prefer CBSE schools because they follow very unique teaching method which can be grasped by students easily. Further, these schools give scopes to students from different locations, even from abroad to take admission. Expenses are quite reasonable so that parents can easily afford the childâ€™s education irrespective of his financial status. While selecting the best CBSE school, you need to consider several aspects:-

1. Location of the school:-

When you are sending your precious one away from home for the first time, you need to be very particular about the school location and ambiance. Thus it is advisable to look for educational institutions which are located at convenient places where you can reach easily on an emergency basis. The school should offer the perfect peaceful ambiance where kids can learn and grow up under the able guidance of loving faculties. In fact, with a little bit searches you can come up with schools which offer excellent infrastructure, lots of open spaces and spacious school buildings along with state-of-the-art facilities. If you are looking for residential schools, then make sure to check on the boarding facility.

2. Course curriculum followed by the school :-

There are many schools which though follow CBSE board, they make sure to offer course curriculum which is designed keeping the international standard into consideration. Thus the student gets enough confidence to adjust at any location and environment in case he/she decides to study or work abroad. The best CBSE School should offer education starting from the Montessori level till 12th standard. It is always advisable to check on the school faculty, their education and experience. Even an analysis of the schoolâ€™s past performances is also suggested.

3. Extra curricular activities:-

Most reputed CBSE schools offer a range of extra-curricular activities. Thus kids can take up any activity of his/her choice which can be anything like music, dance, drama, yoga, gymnasium, creative writing, art & craft, Information Technology, science club, environment & nature and different types of sports. Since most schools maintain spacious playgrounds, sports rooms and campuses, this gives enough opportunities to students to indulge in any outdoor activities.

While looking for the best CBSE School from nearby or distant location, you should start with an online search. You can browse websites of different schools to know more. You can even download the application form online, to initiate the application process.
