Why cannot we, or I show our desires with ease and simplicity? Why is life so difficult and at times the simplest needs are unmet? Could it be that we are missing truth or reality of life itself? Take a minute and feel within yourself to become aware of everything and you realize that you feel alone. You may feel empty, can be bitter and angry. The sense of exclusion felt by others and life. This area is the boundary between you and eternity.

This is the "I" of ego you're looking for c. ego is an accumulation of thoughts, memories and programming. You and I have been hypnotized and programmed to accept the reality in the same way other for centuries.

Our families, religions, governments and home towns have all conspired, and ignorance to create a view of reality which is inherent to their limited perceptions. These limitations and perceptions are not bad or evil, just incomplete. The reason we do not trust themselves or to recover our strength is that we have incomplete information about who and what we are.

The dividing line cuts or ego separates us from the awareness of wholeness and perfect natural power. Force that works in harmony with a balanced natural universe without end. Our minds can not overcome his ego, because the mind and ego are the same.

We naturally identify with thoughts and assume that they are reality. Our deepest fear is actually a suspicion that we think is not real, that something is missing in our lives. What is missing is the full awareness of ourselves, a deeper connection than just our minds.

We divided our self perception. We do not perceive or grasp something completely as we are. We see only part of it now.

To trust completely, we must learn not to trust our thoughts, beliefs and learning from the past. We must have identified with nothing but our selves. Life is a continuous process was devoid of illusions and other deaths in that belittle lies that have embraced.

What we call tragedies and crises in our lives are actually our universe liberation from elections, with no real hope to carry us. What power, what we do is generated by fear and manifests itself as incomplete elections, which have an end in death. You can bet that if you make choices and do not come from inside your truth will someday end.

What we call failure in life is a choice or series of choices, not fully conscious. Lack of power is equal to the total lack of confidence in yourself or a lack of awareness of the total self. You're the only one who can bring credibility and a sense of completeness and power.

Nothing outside of you to do this. You must choose the path of inner awareness and be fully alive, fully and completely now. We are employees or vision that the universe wants to our higher nature, or we are slaves to the limitations of past generations, where only a few have power and control.

This is our choice to decide, each of us individually. No need for violence or destruction ruining the lives and property. We just have to realize who we are and to create more complete solutions to the challenges of life.
