Why Summer Training in Lucknow by Ashutosh Kaushik

Article published on February 15th 2012 | Education

The main problem which students faces while going for their summer training is from where to do there training. Location and organization are the two most important factors which students looks for while going for their summer or ant other vocational training programs.In past few years Northern India has appeared as the biggest engineering hub. The number of engineering colleges has increased tremendously in northen India, especially in Uttar Pradesh. As Delhi(NCR) is very close to most of the cities situated in Uttar Pradesh, students gives there first priority to Delhi(NCR) for their training programs.

But Delhi(NCR) is not the first and last option, in fact there are cities like lucknow in Uttar Pradesh which can be a very good option in terms of doing summer training. Lucknow has appeared as new IT industries based city in Uttar Pradesh. The number of IT and other core companies are increasing day by day in lucknow. As lucknow is the state capital of Uttar Pradesh and every company want to get established in the capital in the initial phase only. Top training and development companies has also established there branches in lucknow also, after analysing the advancement of lucknow in technological aspects. These companies are providing development and training on the same standards which they are maintaining in their Delhi(NCR) branch.

These companies has opened new doors for the students especially in East Uttar as they can have quality summer training in their city and near by city(Lucknow) without going to Delhi(NCR).There are now ample number of IT and other core stream job opportunities in lucknow only for freshers students. If we go on the following trends Lucknow can become of the biggest IT hub in the Northen India in the upcoming years.

Students are now free form the boundation of going faraway place for their summer training and also from investing huge amount of money and time for their training, lodging and fooding purposes.

Company from where students are going to do their is the another important factor for summer training. Students should go for a company which is well established in the market and have expertise in training and development. Students should keep some important factors like experience and qualification of trainers and experts who are going to train them, whether the company is going to make them work on live projects, whether they are going to get certification or not and many other important factors.

Summer training is no doubts is the most important part of engineering studies, because it all about learning practical aspects of technologies and becoming industry ready professional for a ever growing career ahead. As summer training project is considered by leading companies for analysing the technical skill of the fresher students. And do from a good training company, students can very easily get good command and knowledge of technology in which students are desiring to get a job. The reason behind this is good training company provide training on live project of their clients to the students. This the factors which makes students different from other students, because rest of the students don't have any experince of working in corporate sector. This increases the chance of students of getting a job while their placement program on campus or off campus.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/education-articles/why-summer-training-in-lucknow.htm - Article Side

Ashutosh Kaushik - About Author:
Get enroll yourself for a summer training 2012. Also read more about detail of a summer training in lucknow along with a 6 months industrial training

Article Keywords:
summer training in lucknow, summer training in noida, summer training

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!