Almost everybody loves to go for vintage car shows. They remind us of what cars were all about in the past and what we have forgotten about them in the present. Owning a vintage car is a dream; their owners will tell you. Some owners prefer finding a car in a junk yard and working their way gradually to restore it, while others simply purchase them outright and maintain them.

Most vintage car owners in Abu Dhabi will obviously own more than one vehicle which is why they would often run out of space in their garage quickly. Car owners also love to have as little miles on them as possible as it shows the condition of the engine and other parts, along with increasing the price tag when such cars go on auction. Maintaining them is quite the task, as spares cannot be acquired easily and those that are available are frankly, really expensive. Owning vintage cars can thus be winded down to a hobby if one is in the habit of buying, selling and restoring such beauties.

However rare or new oneâ€™s car collection is; vintage car owners will always garage their possessions. Finding enough garage space in Abu Dhabi is quite easier said than done. Even if one lives in a large house, it still will not be enough to house such a collection. This is why it is best to find a car storage facility rather than looking for parking space in an indoor parking lot.

The Box a storage facility in Abu Dhabi specializes in vehicle storage of every kind from vintage cars to modern roadsters to ATV and even two wheelers.
