What to Look for in High-Quality Wedding Videography by Hector Castaneda

Article published on April 30th 2012 | Entertainment

There are some days in a person's life that are more special than other days. One of the most important and memorable days in anyone's life is the wedding day. To capture that special day, couples often turn to video production services. When it comes to Wedding Videography New York couples want high-quality services that are reliable and dependable. But what should couples look for when it comes to wedding videography?

As mentioned above, when it comes to wedding videography New York couples (and those who live in surrounding areas) demand high-quality and reliable service. The wedding, and all that goes with it, is not something one can repeat if mistakes happen. For this reason, couples must rely on video production companies that know what they are doing and have the expertise to ensure that everything goes perfectly.

Turbo Productions Pty Ltd is one such company that couples have been turning to for years when it comes to capturing the events of their special day. Turbo Productions offers a variety of packages of wedding videos in New York. These packages are designed to meet any need and budget. Here are the highlights of two of their most popular wedding videography packages.

The standard package includes up to five hours of coverage. One highly skilled wedding videographer will capture the entire wedding ceremony as well as congratulations and family photoshoot. The videographer will then return for the wedding reception, capturing the Introductions, Speeches, Cake Cutting and First Dance (if timing allows).

With this package, the final product includes two fully edited DVD's which generally run from between 1.5 to 2 hours. These DVD's are not copy protected meaning if you need more than two copes, you can burn more by using simple computer options that are already on most modern computers. And unlike some wedding video services that only provide the actual ceremony and then some montage clips of the rest of the event, Turbo Productions offers its customers the entire ceremony, the bridal party reception introductions in full, the speeches in full, cake cutting in full and first dance in full.

Turbo Productions also offers its valued customers a Deluxe Package. When it comes to wedding videography, New York couples sometimes want more than the basic package described above. When this is the case, the Deluxe Package is the way to go.

The Deluxe Wedding Videography Package includes up to the ten hours of coverage. With this package, one wedding videographer will begin coverage starting with the bride and groom preparations (split time). A videographer will then continue to follow the couple throughout the day for a maximum of ten hours. Additional hours are available by request. All of the camera work performed by Turbo Productions is conducted in a cinematic style using the latest DSLR technology.

With the Deluxe Package, the final product includes five fully edited DVD's which normally run between 1.5 to 2 hours. One edited HD Blu-Ray Disk; this is the same content as the DVD but in higher quality. The package also includes one leather presentation folio, a one-song highlights montage, and online video sharing of highlights video.

To learn more about wedding videography, New York couples can visit the Turbo Productions website for complete details.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/entertainment-articles/what-to-look-for-in-high-quality-wedding-videography.htm - Article Side

Hector Castaneda - About Author:
To learn more about high-quality a Wedding Videography New York residents should visit this site.

Article Keywords:
wedding videography new york, video production new york, ny wedding videos

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!