The one important item among nursery furniture is that of the cot beds. These are where your little ones will rest and sleep; good sleep hours will ensure consistent growth and development of their physical selves. The choice of these beds is multiple which you can make based on several conditions. The color of the walls and the theme of room dÃ©cor can be used to choose the color of the bed. Thus, for pristine white walls, you can opt for a white cotbed that looks perfect; it is soothing to the eye and creates a wonderful effect of spaciousness within. White is also a color that can go well even with the changes in the colors of walls and room dÃ©cor themes.

Painted white cotbed can be selected also based on its sizes. These are available in different dimensions that will allow your child to sleep on it for as many months possible before graduating to a normal bed. To add to the protection and security of smaller children there are high railings and panels on both ends. The railings are movable in some designs that you may need to remove for a purpose. However, with these on their position you are rest assured that cot beds are safe for the child and disallow any attempt to get out of it.

There are various colors and designs of cot beds available at stores. You can find these starting from price ranges of Â£50 and continuing for more than Â£150. The price variation is determined by several factors such as sizes, making and wood quality among other things. There are designer brands of cot beds in the price range of Â£300 and Â£400. Among these, you can also select a white cotbed made elegantly. All cot beds are also accompanied with high quality mattresses and pillows along with covers. In some designs, you can also have drawers with the beds for safe storage of furnishing items and replacements.
