Principles Followed by Christian Debt Consolidation Companies by James Ble

Article published on April 25th 2012 | Finance

The business policies followed by most of the christian debt consolidation companies apparently seem to be not following the preaching of the Bible. But actually, they follow what is mentioned in the Bible and go after the accumulation of the debt. There is always a debate about taking debt in Christianity. Some feel that it's wrong to do so, while find no problem. There is a third belief that Christianity allows one to take some debt to buy some asset as long as the money is not too much beyond your capability to be repaid.

There are certain preaching in the Bible which mentions about the debt and repaying it. The line "Owe no man anything, but to love one another" (Romans 13:8) specifies that as the poor people serve their rich masters, so will a borrower do for his lender. Christian debt consolidation companies also tell us about another line which clearly tells us that a loan if taken should be repaid. The line rightly mentions - "The wicked borrow and do not repay, but the righteous give generously" (Psalm 37:21).

Christian debt consolidation companies explain to us that the Almighty wants us to lead a comfortable and affluent life which becomes difficult due to the burden of debt. These companies try real hard to make the person be free of his debt. Christians are more at ease to work with the christian debt consolidation companies than the non-Christian ones. There obviously comes a question about the reason of using Christian in their names though there is no religious discrimination almost, while lending money to people.

There are various Christian debt consolidation companies who come up with offers to pay back your loan at little or no interest at all. This is fake claim which has tarnished the images of these companies. This points out that you can freely select a non-Christian company over a Christian one.
