Choosing the Best Cream Containing the Right Ingredients by Radsonsmith

Article published on July 27th 2012 | Fitness

You must take care of your skin early in age, to enjoy young and beautiful skin for decades. Women of today are lucky to have a wide range of anti-aging products, such as a skin tightening cream, and others to choose from. In the ancient times, kitchen was the source of beauty ingredients. Today, it is the Internet.

You, no longer, need to prepare pastes and grind powders to prepare anti-aging formulas at home. You neither need to mess up your hands mixing herbs, oils, fruit pulps, and other natural elements, to create the perfect cream for your face.

Just perform a few clicks of the computer mouse and the best skin cream is at your doorstep.

Choose the right cream

The Internet has made beauty products easily accessible. At the same time, it has confused people with a huge collection of products. What is the best cream? The dilemma of choosing the best cream intensifies with each cream claiming to be the best.

The wisest way to choose a cream is to look at the ingredients. If the label says parabens, oils, fragrances, and alcohol, drop the cream like a hot potato. Alcohol dries the skin, parabens do nothing but smoothen the skin just on the surface, oils may blog pores, and fragrances are good for nothing. Moreover, if you love fragrances so much, then get yourself a good perfume.

Does a bottle or jar of a cream attract you? Get yourself a nice show piece instead and then start looking for a cream.

Be serious and look for a skin tightening cream, as if you were looking for a medication. A powerful anti-aging formula, in fact, works like a medication for the skin. It contains ingredients that are either present in the skin already or has ingredients that activate the sluggish mechanism of the dermis, which is the middle layer of the skin.

Look for three ingredients

The first is matrixyl 3000. It encourages collagen production. Clinical studies showed that this ingredient increased the levels of hyaluronic acid and collagen by 100 percent.

The second is hyaluronic acid. Applying this acid through external source, such as a cream, helps to increase its level in the skin layer. The acid is known for its excellent property of holding moisture. It plumps up skin cells, filling up wrinkles on the surface.

The third is argireline. When this ingredient was discovered, it created a storm in the beauty market, as it was considered an alternative to Botulinum injections (botox). Argireline does what botox injections do. It relaxes the contracted muscles of the face, giving a smooth complexion. Clinical studies have shown that this ingredient smoothens the skin by 30 percent within 30 days of daily use.

Only a cream containing the above three ingredients can promise to solve the issue of how to look younger. The rest only lure you through their elegant-looking bottles and heavenly fragrances.

What about the price?

If beauty is priceless, why bother about the price of beauty creams. You would be surprised to know that various brands are offering a free one-month trial pack of their best skin tightening cream. Experience the wonder and then pay with a smile.
