Completely Crazy Celebrity Skin Treatments by Stella Richard

Article published on May 4th 2012 | Fitness

There are a number of skin treatments and procedures that are being propagated out there with an idea to make you look younger and more ravishing. While the fact of life is that it is impossible to turn back time, celebrities, socialites and fashionistas around the world are spending millions of dollars every year to undergo these treatments. While some of them are necessary, many are pure indulgence and downright crazy! No wonder stars like Angelina Jolie, Demi Moore and Victoria Beckham have been able to hold on to their youth and not age by a single day over the years.

Here are some of the most extravagant beauty treatments that are known to have been frequently conducted by celebrities around the world -

1. Evian Bath â€“

It is believed that sporting celebrity Serena Williams bathes herself in Evian Spring Water on a regular basis. According to her, this five thousand dollar bath is an extremely refreshing experience and rejuvenates you skin from your first dip. A number of hotels offer a customized Evian bathing experience at their spas which includes the use of a 1000 litres of Evian Natural Spring Water that is believed to revitalize and purify your skin.

2. Bird Excreta Facial :

As repulsive as it sounds, celebs like Victoria Beckham are known to follow this ancient Japanese beauty secret. Commonly practiced by geishas, many celebrities around the world are known to be getting these facials down once or twice a month. It is believed that nightingale bird excreta contains special enzymes which help break down dead skin cells and act as a natural polish for the skin. This treatment is offered a number of celebrity spas and skin clinics around the world.

3. Bee Venom Facial:

Known to be costing a whopping $ 56,000 per ounce, bee venom is the secret to the worldâ€™s most beautiful bride, Kate Middleton. It is said that the Duchess took several facials before her big day to get the perfect bridal glow. This mask is made of lavender oils, manuka honey and shea butter and is known to transform the health of your skin immediately. Bee venom is available only selective spas and clinic around the world.

4. Placenta Facials:

This treatment was invented by Russian scientists who developed this cream from bovine placentas and believed that it would help reduce all signs of aging. Singing sensation and actor Jennifer Lopes has a lot of credit to give to placenta cream facial for her young looks. The nutrient filled tissue of the placenta is believed to stimulate the skin and hair and deliver some great end results.

In addition to this, celebrities are known to be also using treatments such as leech therapy and cupping acupuncture which may sound preposterous to us common people, but in some way or the other work of them. Yet, no one can do without the good old home based therapies that your grand mom told you about. Not only are they cost-effective and easy to implement, but they also provide the same end results without having to spend thousands of dollars.
