Article published on December 29th 2011 | Fitness

Yes, the latest Motorola MOTOACTV is the three in one device which comes in with the fitness trackers, the GPS watch and music player.So,for the fitness freak in you and a lover of music this seems to be the ideal option.But, like always you will definitely want to go through a thorough review of the product before you actually buy the product.Run the Line has a detailed review of the product and has provided a very insightful description of the various features that the product comes in with.

This product, the Motorola MOTOACTV, is the first fitness and music device that has been launched to help all the fitness freaks reach their fitness goals.How you may be wondering! This device is capable to track, sync and record all your data related to your workouts and also has the ability to customize the music you would prefer to listen to while on the workout.

With the help of the Bluetooth, the device logs in all the details related to the distance traveled, the time you were on the workout and also the calories you have burnt.The GPS, accelerometer, and a heart rate monitor that is inbuilt will record all the routes you have taken to and make a map of the same.

This is indeed the latest gift to the gizmo freaks who are fitness freaks too because it gives them a combo offer to have their favorite music on the wearable fitness trackers.The device comes in with a box that contains all those things that can kick off your fitness program along with a few accessories too which you may choose basing on the needs you encounter while training.

Having music going on that would pump you with all the energy that you need to keep going is indeed a great push for all those people who feel not up to the mood to go on their fitness schedule at times.Thanks to the advancements in technology, people are now able to have their fitness song and GPS watch and fitness tracker all combined into one.

Yes, it is true that each one has his version or his own take on a particular product.But Motorola MOTOACTV has too many takers hands down for the kind of combo package it comes in.Check out the unbiased and factual review at Run the Line and take a call for yourself.
