How to Find Great Restaurants in Melbourne by Arabe Sque

Article published on July 21st 2012 | Food

As the cultural heart of Australia, you will find all the flavors of the world in amongst Melbourne restaurants, cafes and eateries. Thatâ€™s why itâ€™s renowned as being the Australian leader for fine dining experiences. But with variety comes choice, and deciding which restaurants to visit can be a tricky decision to make. The following handy tips will help you end up in the right place:

Sounds

If you can hear the chatter and laughter of happy people coming from inside, those sounds indicate a great dining experience. A simple rule of thumb is the busier the better. Eating out can be an expensive business, so ensuring an enjoyable dining experience is important. No one really wants to sit and dine in cold, uncomfortable silence. A crowd indicates great food and a fantastic atmosphere.

Smells

Food should be as rich in aroma as it is in flavor, particularly cuisines that use a variety of spices, such as Middle Eastern food. Suffice to say, if youâ€™re attracted by the smells, itâ€™s worth taking a loo inside.

The Menu

A good selection of dishes should help draw you in even further. Be wary of too many meal choices, because it typically means the dishes wonâ€™t all be made fresh to order, and the ingredients wonâ€™t b of the highest quality. When visiting an international restaurant, the food should be made using traditional techniques or at least traditional influences.

Libations

As any self respecting foodie will tell you, a good meal is always accompanied by a quality drink. There isnâ€™t a cuisine that cannot be perfectly complemented by the right selection of reds, whites and spirits. Take maze style cuisine for example, a dining experience created specifically to match great food with excellent liquors.

Knowledgeable Staff

If itâ€™s an authentic restaurant, the servers should know the ins and outs of the cuisine and be happy to answer all your questions. Great staff will be able to describe to you exactly what a dish is, recommend what food and drink combinations go well together and make you feel welcome throughout your meal.

Repeat Value

The mark of a truly great restaurant is whether or not it is worth a second, third or even fourth visit. Itâ€™s the sort of place that you are always eager to go to again and again, whether it is for the same beloved dish or to try every last little delight on the menu.

Taste

Finally, when the food is placed in front of you, it should not only smell beautiful and look exactly like what was described to you, but taste divine as well. Itâ€™s that simple.
