Mail Order Cakes to tempt any taste bud by Mary Porter

Article published on June 16th 2012 | Food

Mail order cakes make wonderful presents for family and friends alike. Choose a wonderfully moist fruit cake or a decadent chocolate sponge and see their faces light up. Mail order cakes are truly unique presents â€“ you can guarantee no one will have had the same idea, and choosing your friendâ€™s favourite type is guaranteed to put a smile on their face.

Mail order cakes are great for special occasions, and with Motherâ€™s day only just around the corner, you may want to get your order in quick! Valentineâ€™s Day is another great excuse to buy mail order cakes, and this time youâ€™ll get to share it with your loved one! Mail order cakes also make great corporate gifts, showing your employees that theyâ€™ve done a good job and reward them. With delivery to the office and the ability to choose a range of cakes to suit everyoneâ€™s tastes, mail order cakes will brighten up your colleaguesâ€™ day.

Mail order cakes not only make wonderful gifts for friends and family, they also make lovely treats for you to enjoy. Whether your full time job means you donâ€™t have time to bake or if youâ€™re just not talented in the kitchen, choosing mail order cakes means you get homemade, tasty cakes delivered to your door without having to lift a finger. Homemade mail order cakes are often considered to be much tastier than shop bought cakes and the natural ingredients used in mail order cakes makes them perfect everyone to enjoy.

Countryfarmcakes.co.uk is your one stop shop for hand made cakes. Using recipes passed from generation to generation, this family run business bake traditional cakes using local ingredients. Their mail order service means people around the UK can share a taste of their Sussex cakes. Each cake is left to slowly cook in stone based ovens before it is lovingly decorated by hand.
