Article published on March 1st 2012 | Food

India is amongst the most densely populated nations in the world. It is home to people belonging to diverse classes, societies, beliefs and values. All of them have their individual customs and ways of life. Being an essential element of culture, each culture has its individual kind of food. All these diverse local cuisines form one Indian cuisine. Indian food is amongst the most admired fare eaten all over the world.

There are thousands of restaurants in India which offer all types of cuisines. These eating places not just offer the local but cuisines from diverse places in the world, as well. Regardless of what your tastes are and what your budget is you are able to have food of your preference in an Indian restaurant.

Despite the fact that there are great Indian restaurants in all the cities and towns of the country, yet all the rage tourist destinations have largest number of excellent food restaurants, too. For example, a vast and well-known city like Delhi is home to a large number of eating places and is a lot identified as the center of restaurants. There are even some eateries in Delhi which have got position in Top 50 restaurants of the world. For all reasons, it is a fashionable city and millions of travelers come to visit the town for diverse reasons. To cater to the food desires of the guests, these eateries perform outstandingly. In addition, residents of Delhi are in love with eating out and in fact this custom of eating out is encouraged by these outlets, by serving the finest sort of fare. Similar to the eating places in Delhi, restaurants in Bangalore, Chennai, Mumbai and Hyderabad also are worthy of mentioning. All these outlets in these big cities not only provide local fare but also the international cuisine with equal expertise. Though, the class category and the worth of the food rely on the kind and class of eating place you are visiting.

Last but not the least, besides specialty restaurants, fast food joints all over India are also witnessing a rise in demand.
