In the world of technology have you ever thought of going outside and play games or enjoying with your friends? I know that your answer is always NO. Because in this century technology has brought all of the things at a stone throw away. We can find friends online, no matter how much far are they, we can talk to them, watch them, play with them, share with them, then what's the use of getting outside. Technology had shrunk the imaginary world of the kids into the game box and made it so interesting that even adults and teenagers are going crazy to play them.

There are several interesting games available in the market that makes people fond of them. One of them which is most popular is Alliance of Valiant Arms. It is more than a fighting game; you must show your talent in attacking and defend tactics. One big advantage is that you can play it online because it brings much fun and contact between players across the globe. Even through many other game companies have brought their own FPS games, even through these games are alike to AVA and that the game does not precisely break away from the modern FPS mold, the advanced graphics and smooth game play make it a first class F2P game.

The world of games is not limited with AVA, it has more in its basket. The other popular and unique game is Quack Live. It is a relatively new browser-based video game. This game is pretty self-explanatory : this game runs from your internet browser. It is an advance version of the very popular game Quake 3 Arena, which came out in 1999 and was admired by video game critics and players alike. The popularity of this game can be assumed by, that a LAN party called Quakecon is held in Dallas yearly that attracts thousands of gamers around the world.

As the gaming market is expanding day by day and the craze of playing games is also increasing among the people. As the games are updated every day, with that cheat and hack codes of these games are also becoming popular. As the gamers interested in playing games they are more interested in these codes. These codes are helpful in playing games, scoring more points, and most of all it helps you in lifting your name at the top of the scoreboard. The tf2 cheats, alliance of valiant arms hacks, and quake live hacks are the most popular hacks available online. These codes are safe to use and no one can know that you are using cheat codes. Since the game is online, you aren't able to see your opponent as he plays the game. This is certainly a huge advantage to those players who choose to cheat in online.
