How would you react to a person who is all set to make sure that the established rules and regulations that had been governing the system of economics till now are put to some severe test? Well! Majority of the population would react in an astonished manner that how the established principles that had been governing the world of economics can can be challenged all of a sudden. And that too by a man named Roger James Hamilton who till now was unknown in the well established circles of wealth creation. The reasons are several. The first and the foremost reason is that the current system of economics or wealth creation is not producing the desired results. One recession after another recession has been hitting the world and there is not much that the experts could do about it. And already the people involved in the wealth creation as well as the common man were looking for a solution. And Roger claimed that solution was all too evident but somehow was being missed out on by the people involved in it.

Obviously such a situation where a comprehensive solution is being provided by an unknown person named as Roger James Hamilton. And much more than that, the surprising fact is that the solution provided has challenged or rather shaken the pillars of the existing system of world economy. But that was bound to happen as the solution that was provided by Roger is really a revelation. Not a soul in the world of wealth creation could have really imagined that such a synergy could have existed between the all pervasive and the all powerful nature and the craft of wealth creation. Because that is exactly what the theories created by Roger pointed at.

According to this man Roger James Hamilton, if the most powerful element that is nature, is not given its due respect and position in the world of wealth creation then the individual seeking wealth would never be able to reach his destined goal. And once the nature or rather in the words of the man himself if the natural flow within the individual is not recognized by the individual then he would never ever be able to create wealth in the way it should be earned. And that too, when the reason behind the creation of wealth is to enrich and enjoy life. If the individual has successfully allowed the natural flow of the human being to come forth, then the only thing that would happen to him is that he would be earning wealth without creating a ripple of a stress in his life.
