For all you hardcore gamers out there, you know that your gaming experience isn't the best without the proper sound and audio. Good clean and crisp sound can give you a little bit of a competitive edge on other players and also make your gaming more enjoyable. Surround sound systems are good but can be rather disturbing. So.. what can you do? In this article I will give you tips on how to find what is the best gaming headset for you and your needs.

To begin, in my opionion the best gaming headset has to have full 7.1 Dolby Surround Sound. The audio output from these headsets are superb and give you the feeling of actually being in the game.You can hear where footsteps are coming from and hone in on your target. Plus, you have the option of cranking the volume to the max withoutdisturbing people in your home or your neighbors. If you don't know how 7.1 Surround Sound works then I will briefly describe it.

The best gaming headset with Pure Dolby 7.1 Surround Sound gives you the feeling of having seven speakers surrounding your head with low bass, mid, and high audio outputs. This results in a total feeling of being part of the game, bringing out sounds you wouldn't normally hear from your TV speakers or surround sound system.

So, now you may ask, what is the best gaming headset? From my test and reviews I think that the most dominate brand of gaming headsets is the Turtle Beach EarForce brand. I have reviewed various headsets from the Turtle Beach brand and I was never let down in all the various features I looked for.A good gaming headset will allow you to hear various sounds I didn't normally hear in my games. Like flies buzzing around and even bullets flying by my head.The sound of top quality headsetsis so realistic that it willactually make youturn and look behindyour headat moments.

But a 7.1 surround sound headset setsthe bar for what is the best gaming headsets. So if you want a good quality gaming headset that delivers uncomparable sound quality you would do good to choose from various headsets after you read the reviews. Some feature more than others and sound are much better in qaulity, butit is easyto choose what is the best gaming headset for you within your budget.
