Article Side

Various types of ink cartridges by Nicky Dutta

Article published on January 17th 2012 | Hardware

In order to print images you will need a printer. It is an electronic device that is used for the purpose of making hard copies. Thus it has become an integral part of every organization and is used for safeguarding the data for future use. It is used for both commercial as well personal purposes. There are various types of printers that are available in the market. Companies like Epson and canon have made a strong mark in this field. A printer makes use of a printing cartridge for creating images. It is extremely important that the design of the cartridge bought should be according to the model of the printer. Hence Canon Ink cartridges and Epson Ink cartridges are highly purchased. The quality of the print is very heavily dependent upon the type of cartridge use in it. The inkjet type of printers is highly in demand because they can easily print good quality images at very affordable prices. While in laser printers the toner type of cartridges aroused, which although produce fast prints at much better quality but they are more costly and are hence used only for commercial purposes.

Various features

The working of the Canon Ink cartridges and Epson Ink cartridges are very much similar to that of other cartridges. They can make use of piezoelectric or thermal printing type of techniques. Inkjet cartridges the customer often need to pay an amount which is almost half of what they had paid for the printer. Thankfully these cartridges can be easily refilled. It is very simple and affordable to get these cartridges refilled. Thus in an overall factor it is a cheper investment. Most of the printer users , often refill these cartridges on their cartridges on their own. The Canon Ink cartridges and Epson Ink cartridges are very easily available at affordable prices in the market. There are various models of these printers and hence there are various cartridges. The model of the cartridge is very much dependent on the model of the printer. The cannon and the Epson companies promote the use of original refills only and hence they regularly come up with discount and offer ion the cartridges. Boot these cartridges are extremely popular among the users. The quality of the prints from these cartridges is unmatched and hence they are highly sold in the market. They can be easily and affordable refilled. Some of the other brands provide chapel cartridges that can work easily with these printers. Although they are easily available yet they are not recommended because the quality of the print is not of the quality of the prints by Canon Ink cartridges and Epson Ink cartridges.

Key points

Since there are many companies who are selling their cartridges using the names of Canon Ink cartridges and Epson Ink cartridges so it is extremely important to make a proper check that the cartridge you buy is original. Most people like to purchase them online because at online stores the price is much less and also you can choose from many options.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/hardware-articles/various-types-of-ink-cartridges.htm - Article Side

Nicky Dutta - About Author:
For more information on a Ink cartridges and a Epson Ink cartridges , please visit our a Canon Ink cartridges site

Article Keywords:
ink cartridges,toner cartridges,printer ink cartridges

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!