Ft. Myers is Fort Myers, and is not only historical, the country seat, government hub, but also, the commercial centre of Lee County Florida. She has a population of approximately 63,000. The city is known to be one of the major cities that make up the Cape Coral Fort Myers Metropolitan Statistical areas and the Cape Coral. She is the gate way to the south west Florida region, which is a major tourist destination in Florida.

Ft. Myers also flaunts on her clinics of Cosmetic Surgery. One such treatment is the Facelift Ft. Myers. In medical terms, face lift is known as rhytidectomies, which is a cosmetically surgical procedure focusing on certain areas of the face, with the purpose of, giving one a younger appearance. When the surgeons of the Facelift Ft. Myers performs the face lift surgery, he / she generally tightens and removes the sagging skin, which is again usually, done by removing excess fat, tightening the muscles, and pulling the skin, until it is a taut.

Please don't think that the term face lift is termed only, for areas around the eyebrows, or the corners of the mouth, but rather, the whole of the face, along with, the neck and till, the collar bone. Normally, face lifting takes more or less a couple of hours depending upon the intensity and the procedure adopted, and if several different procedures are combined it, then, of course, takes longer. Facelift Ft. Myers uses anesthesia, even, in case of face lift, and it is an outpatient surgery, which means the patient can go home, once the anesthesia wears off. Even, when the anesthesia wears off, the patient may still feel shaky and unsteady, and thus, it is advisable that the patient is helped, while going home. It then generally, takes a few weeks to recover, from face lifts. Immediately, after recovery, the face swells and seems bruised and may experience some pain, minor in some cases and severe, in some. It is all because results vary, from person to person. Any way pain relief is normally, prescribed the doctors of Facelift Ft. Myers. As usual, as with any surgery, instructions for post operative care will also, be provided by the doctors of the clinic.

According to the doctors of Facelift Ft. Myers, the best candidates for the face lift surgery are those who are over 40, with skin that is visibly loose on the neck and the face. Though the face lift surgery may give one, a more youth full look and appearance, the procedure is not, without any risk. Like if the patient is unfortunate and the surgery goes as total blunder, one also, runs the risk of suffering permanent facial nerve damage. Scarring may also occur, though steps are taken to ensure that scarring is minimal and on a hidden location on the face or the neck.

According to the doctors of Azulbeauty of The Azul Cosmetic Surgery and Medical Spa, says if one is considering for a face lift, then be sure to do plenty of research first " both the cases, of patient's satisfaction and the doctors qualification.
