

Article Side

Cervical Fusion Offers a Lot of Hope to Many Patients by Gary Carty

Article published on August 22nd 2012 | Health

The cervical fusion is one great method which is followed for treating various problems related to the spine. The fusion method is highly effective for taking off the pressure on nerve roots. When the nerve root in the cervical is pressed, there are several problems that are related to it. Patients often complain about a heavy feeling and going numb around the neck and back of the head. Also, there is pain in the entire arm. The posture is altered which further creates more pressure on other discs. The anterior and posterior cervical disectomy is used to relieve the pressure and give a proper treatment and relief to the patient. Experienced and skilled doctors will perform the best technique and give the optimum post operative support to support patients with spine problems.

The spine surgery in Atlanta also includes the method of spinal fusion wherein the grafting method of bone is applied. This is allowed to grow naturally and the bone blends well between the vertebra. The healing process is explained and a few doâ€™s and donâ€™ts will allow you to have a routine life. Pain in the spine or extended to your legs can put you off your routine. It also creates other stress related illnesses and can also cost you your job. A good surgeon will explain to you the procedure after evaluating all the tests and conduct a series of conclusive results that will help you to know if a surgery is necessary. Care at the clinic and postoperative follow ups are also assuring to many patients. Quality and state-of-art theatres are used to aid the surgery.

During the procedure of bringing out the disc for observing and relieving the pressure, a lot of care and expertise is administered. The surgeon will also ascertain all other facts including case history as well previous surgeries done on the patient. A timely operation can certainly bring relief to the patient. This will be followed by physiotherapy under observance and the recuperating method will also be explained to the patient. Cervical fusion is now an effective way to cure most of the cervical related problems and giving the best treatment to make the life of patients normal and enriching. In the case of posterior ectomy, which is effective for problems owing to a fracture or accident, the surgery is performed from the back of the neck. This is also effective for changing any physical abnormality of the neck.

Spine surgery in Atlanta is done with precision and care by experienced surgeons who are diligent and work with the latest procedures in the medical world. Using fusion and other techniques, patients who have had fractures or have a herniated disc are treated in the most effective way. Degenerative diseases, disc rupture as well as spine and cervical problems related to posture are treated with utmost care and sincerity. The field of spine treatment and surgery is always evolving new methods that can be used to give more hope for people suffering from spinal defects and pain.

Article Source:

<http://www.articleside.com/health-articles/cervical-fusion-offers-a-lot-of-hope-to-many-patients.htm> - Article Side

Gary Carty - About Author:

Author is an expert author with rich experience in Health industry and works for a Erik T. Bendiks, M.D. At present he is writing on various topics like lumbar fusion surgery, a cervical fusion treatment, orthopedic surgeon Atlanta, spine surgery atlanta etc.

Article Keywords:
cervical fusion, spine surgery Atlanta

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!