Long years back, Cancer was considered a deadly, incurable disease; if youâ€™ve Cancer, youâ€™ve a very limited time here on planet earth, but things have changed completely. Today, cancer, if detected in the early stages, is quite curable. And, very soon, that day will come when Cancer will be regarded as a small disease just like fever or loose motion. It helps a lot if you go for regular health checkups. And, with so many hospitals around, getting health checkups done should not be a challenge, but make sure you choose a reputed hospital. Even if youâ€™ve been diagnosed with Cancer, you should not worry and instead, look for a reputed oncology hospital in India. Google is a wonderful tool to search for hospitals in and around your region and also know all the relevant details about each of those hospitals.

Remember that Cancer is a broad term that encompasses over one hundred different types of Cancer; each type of Cancer can have its own set of characteristics, however there are a few symptoms that one can find in many types of Cancer. Here are a few of them:

Fatigue

A commonly experienced Cancer symptom, Fatigue conditions are more common during the advanced stages of the disease, however, it may occur in the early stages as well.

Weight Loss

For many, weight loss without trying will feel like a great thing, but it may also be a red flag for a lot of diseases, including Cancer. So, if youâ€™re experiencing a drastic loss in your weight, you should, at least, give a visit to a qualified doctor.

Bowel Changes

So, if you lately have been experiencing constipation, blood in the stools, gas or thinner stools, make sure you see your doctor immediately. These symptoms generally point towards colon Cancer.

If the person is diagnosed with Cancer, he should immediately look for the best treatment in a reputed Cancer surgery hospital India, so that success chances are greater. As the docs put it, â€˜the earlier Cancer is diagnosed, the greater are the chances of survivalâ€™.

If he is already not aware of top hospitals around, a few minutes of Google search can be quite useful.

Before finalizing a particular oncology hospital in India, one should see whether the hospital has performed similar treatments/surgeries before. Always choose a hospital which has done Cancer treatments in the past, with quite a success rate. Costs involved in the treatment are one more issue that you should keep in your mind.
