Donâ€™t you ever wonder what were the methods used by our ancestors to treat and maintain their beauty? As the discovery of chemical based cleansing products was fairly recent the only alternative that we know couldâ€™ve been used are natural oils and organic materials. Till recent times most of the cleansing agents were made at home. There are many people who still make their own cleansing agents which are comparatively cheaper with the vast range of vegetable and animal oils readily available.

Natural soaps are made from vegetable and animal oils and fats. It is left up to the maker of the soap as to what fats he prefers to use. Vegetable or plant oils are generally preferred due to the medicinal value that some plants posses and also because they give a gentle odor to the end product.

We are aware of the increasing pollution and its effect on the body and the only way to counteract its effect on the skin is by using chemical free or natural cleansers. natural soap contain ingredients which neutralize effects of chemicals on the skin. These soaps are mild and can be used on any skin type.

There are a few natural soaps that possess medicinal and healing properties. They contain ingredients that help heal or prevent skin allergies. Natural soaps are most suitable for sensitive and tender skin. This healing property of the is what made it popular. Another reason which has increased the demand for natural soaps is the fact that they can be used to clean anything beside skin.

As the demand for natural soaps has spiked in the recent years many companies are competing with each other to manufacture products that best suit the public. They manufacture perfumed and non- perfumed soaps to meet the specific need of the customers.
