Save up to $45,000 on the cost of Dental Implants with the Break-through All-on-4 Protocol! Part 2 by Derek Dawson

Article published on March 30th 2012 | Health

In our previous article post on the cost of dental implants, we began examining how the breakthrough All-on-4 dental implant protocol can save patients an average of $25,000 on oral rehabilitation. This is made possible by the lesser number of dental implants and the fewer surgeries needed by this protocol in order to give patients a complete set of new and non-removable teeth. In this, the final installment of a two-part series, courtesy of qualified and experienced implant dentist, Dr. Wayne Bruegggen, we shall be discussing how the All-on-4 can help patients presenting with more complex cases save a staggering $45,000 on the total cost of dental implants. And these incredible savings are pivotal upon the All-on-4 bypassing the need for bone grafting surgery!

The Cost of Dental Implants: Bone Grafting Surgery

In order to fully appreciate how the All-on-4 allows patients to make dramatic savings of as much as $45,000, one must understand why the cost of dental implants and oral rehabilitation was so high prior to the innovation of this surgical protocol. When multiple teeth are lost and go without replacement – as is the case with denture wearers – the jaw bone that was once kept alive and healthy by the tooth roots begins to atrophy and waste away. You see, just like the muscles in your body, your bones require “exercise” and stimulation, which is provided by transmission of chewing forces facilitated by the tooth roots. When this stimulation is lost, the volume of hard tissue in the jaw deteriorates from disuse.

Dental implants, like natural teeth, require sufficient jaw bone volume in order to remain stably “anchored” in the mouth. As such, patients presenting with advanced bone loss in the jaw were previously told that they were not candidates for dental implant procedures, unless bone grafting surgery could be performed to augment and encourage the growth of healthy bone tissue in the jaw. The problem with bone grafting is that the procedure is expensive and also painful for the patient. Furthermore, it requires months of healing before the jaw bone is ready to receive dental implants. As a result, patients were not only looking at having to cover the cost of dental implants and all associated surgeries, but this additional and expensive surgery as well!

All-on-4 Protocol: Saving on the Total Cost of Dental Implants

Through the careful placement and angulation of dental implants in the mouth, qualified and experienced implant dentist, Dr. Wayne Bruegggen, can provide patients with a new set of non-removable teeth, almost always without the need for bone grafting surgery beforehand. This, together with savings made on the number of dental implants and surgeries needed for oral rehabilitation, translates into staggering savings of up to $45,000 on the cost of dental implants! What does this mean for edentulous (not having a single original adult tooth left) and near-edentulous patients? - A future with all the benefits of having beautiful, immediately functional and non-removable teeth and none of the challenges and repeated expenses associate with removable full or partial dentures. All at a much reduced cost of dental implants!
