Say Goodbye to Dark Circles : Follow Four Thumb Rules by Kasper Knight

Article published on June 21st 2012 | Health

Choosing the best dark eye circle concealer is no big deal. You must only know how to choose one. A wrong choice or color, such as a concealer darker than your skin tone, can spoil your look and even make the circles more prominent. Similarly, a too light concealer gives grayish or violet look under the eyes.

How can this problem be solved? Well, look carefully at your dark circles.

Thumb rule #1:

Opposite colors nullify each other. Use a concealer that merges with your skin tone.

â€¢ If you got purplish or bluish dark circles, which are common on average skin tones, get a ochre or yellow colored concealer.

â€¢ If your skin tone is bronze, golden, or olive, then you may have purple circles that can be hidden by a concealer in peach color.

â€¢ Deep tanned skin may get bluish circles, for which soft burnt orange, dark coral, or caramel concealers are the best.

â€¢ For greenish eye circles, reddish eye concealer works the best.

Ensure that your under eye area is hydrated. Choose a concealer that moisturizes and also reflects light from this delicate area. It helps to brighten your complexion. The best dark eye circle concealer is the one that contains a moisturizing agent. It is easy to apply and does not look too cakey or prominent on the face. This holds true not only for concealers, though for face creams as well, including a face cream for men.

Thumb rule #2:

A concealer should be applied only after applying the foundation, as the foundation hides dark circles to some extent. This lets you use less concealer, rendering a more natural look to your face. Always apply the concealer in thin layers, to avoid a caked-up look.

Thumb rule #3:

Use your ring finger or baby finger for applying the concealer under your eyes. The best way is to gently tap it on the area. You can also use a makeup brush. Start at your eyeâ€™s inside corner. Move delicately to the outside. If needed, dab more to conceal the circles completely. Work on the concealer until it blends so well with your skin that nobody knows you are wearing one. This is one of the characteristics of the best dark eye circle concealer.

Thumb rule #4:

Apply a sheer loose powder on the area after applying the eye concealer. This sets in the concealer. Be careful not to use too much powder. Make sure the powder blends wells and does not accumulate in the fine lines.

Investing in a good product renders a good makeup result. You can also get skin lightening products that help in restoring the glow of your complexion.

Dark circles are generally a result of lack of sleep at night. It may also be a result of certain medication or illness. A stressed lifestyle is common these days. People work late at night, eat unhealthy food, and sit for hours in front of the glaring computer.

Dark circles make you look older. The area under the eyes is delicate. You must avoid rubbing it too hard. Use a cream that is meant especially for under eye care, instead of using a face cream. Get the best dark eye circle concealer. Do not let these ugly circles darken the beauty of your eyes and your face.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/health-articles/say-goodbye-to-dark-circles-follow-four-thumb-rules.htm - Article Side

Kasper Knight - About Author:
MST offers excellent products for skin care, including the a best dark eye circle concealer and several a skin lightening products. MST's a face cream for men is worth trying. Visit its website and order the products as per your skin requirements.

Article Keywords:
Best Dark Eye Circle Concealer , Skin Lightening Products , Face Cream for Men

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!