Article published on January 24th 2012 | Home

Cupolas were seen in old movies and fantasy tales; it was once believed to be a thing of the past. But you will be amazed at the new age cupolas that can now be installed. If you have always craved for those turrets and cupolas that you read in your fairytales, the here is your chance to install them in your house. The installation of new age cupolas does not take more than a few days.

cupolas are of various types and today they are made with a variety of different materials. The basic rule of making a cupola is it should be 1 feet to one and half feet bigger on the sides than the pillar on which it is mounted. This gives it the required space to sit on. You can also make it look more attractive by putting a weather cock or a wind vane on top of it. You can also paint it in contrasting colors to make them look grander and the colors also highlight the turret so that the cupola stands out.

Contrary to popular belief, cupolas are very sturdy but very light as well. So instead of putting pressure on the structure underneath it, it will actually protect all that is there on the roof. cupolas break the pressures of the wind during a heavy storm and helps rain water to drain down the sloping sides. Sometimes, the pillars are made broader to be made into small storage spaces. Hence, they all serve as good utility spaces.

So now you can easily order your cupola to add that very royal look to your house and make it unique.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/home-articles/cupolas-for-your-house-to-add-that-majestic-touch.htm - Article Side

James Blee - About Author:
For more information on a cupolas, check out the info available online; these will help you learn to find the a vinyl cupolas!

Article Keywords:
cupolas,vinyl cupolas

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!