Can you honestly say you are 100% happy with where you live? If you can, you are a rare breed. Lots of us simply live somewhere for the sake of living â€“ maybe our family live nearby or we ended up in that area because it was cheap. We arenâ€™t living in our dream home and we arenâ€™t even living in area that makes us happy.

However with the housing market as it is and houses being cheap to buy or rent it is the prime time to up sticks and move to where you want to be. It may seem like a big move to start with but once you are there you will find yourself settling quickly.

The first thing you need to consider is the type of place you want to live â€“ have you always dreamt of a seaside home? Or maybe you want to live within the hustle and bustle of a busy city? Whatever it is and wherever it is that you want to live now is the time to grab it with both hands.

Moving home to a completely new area can be hard â€“ even just the logistics of getting everything arranged. However the internet has helped to make things as simple as possible for people in this position. For starters you can use the internet to find the house/flat/apartment that you are looking for.

The best way to do this is to think about what you want and where you want it. For example a search for â€œhouses Invernessâ€• is going to give you all the options regarding houses Inverness and what types of properties are available to you.

This should give you a firm idea of what is available and how much it is going to cost.

You can even use the internet to research the area - find out about local schools, shops and transport links etc. So you should have a good idea of everything that is there before you up sticks and move. This makes the whole process easier than ever, even if you are moving hundreds of miles away.
