People born into the sign Sagittarius are very sensitive and passionate lovers, and their strong feminine energy that more often than not make faithful partnerships. This enthusiastic fire sign is cheerful and friendly, but sometimes will put careers before and at the expense of their relationship. The Sagittarius love horoscope for 2011 is forecasted to be a romantic and intimate year, as you begin to learn more about yourself emotionally. This is a result of the unusual planetary effects on your 4th, 5th, and 6th houses as they relate to home, love, and work related issues.

Jupiter in Pisces, prosperity and abundance

Jupiter normally stays in each zodiac sign for about 13 months, but the beginning of 2011 starts off with Jupiter in Pisces, and your 4th house. Your Sagittarius love horoscope for the month of January focuses on kindness, compassion and emotional well-being. Those that are already in a relationship will feel an overwhelming sense of emotional stability, while those that are searching for love may find it at a charitable event. The month will elevate your keen sense of intuition to levels that even the shy Sagittarian cannot ignore. When the potential partner presents themselves, you will intuitively know it.

Jupiter in Aries, fiery passion and fierce competition

Around January 22nd, Jupiter will move into your 5th house and will remain there until the beginning of June. The Sagittarius love horoscope from February through May will focus on personal pleasure and romance. Sagittarians that are already in a relationship will experience a second honeymoon of fiery passion, and the Sagittarian, renown for their playful antics, will breathe new life into well established relationships. The single Sagittarian will find them selves in fierce competition with others over potential relationships for the sheer entertainment of it.

Jupiter in Taurus, self worth and personal wealth

On June 4th Jupiter will move into your 6th house for the rest of the year. The Sagittarius love horoscope for the rest of the year will focus on personal wealth and self worth. Taurus rules the love of financial security, and 2011 will see a rebound for Sagittarians whose personal wealth has diminished as the result of global recession. A word of caution for Sagittarians already in relationships, there will be a tendency for you to be bullish as it relates to work. The conservative side of you should also pay attention to your relationship, so that your partner does not feel neglected. Single Sagittarians may want to set aside any new relationships until your run for the money is satisfied.

Saturn in Libra, Uranus in Pisces, Neptune in Aquarius, Pluto in Capricorn

The Sagittarius love horoscope will also be influenced by other minor planetary moves. Saturn will be in Libra for the whole year in your 11th house that focuses on friends and professional associations. The wise Sagittarian will not want to mix these two with romance as this can be catastrophic for both. However, Uranus will begin in your 4th house before moving to your 5th house beginning mid-March. While your private life may seem complicated in the beginning you will be electrified with romance after April. Neptune starts the year out in your 3rd house and moves into your 4th house in April through August. This will be the best time, romantically speaking, for the Sagittarius love horoscope because they will be blessed with both an inner peace and a stable relationship.
