Article published on December 27th 2011 | Home Improvement

Has the time come to replace that Wool carpet in your home? Has the old carpet served you well for many years but itâ€™s now beginning to show signs of age? Not to worry, with a bit of planning youâ€ be able to buy wool carpets for all areas of your home if you want, or simply buy a Wool carpet for a particular room in your property.

The process begins with the hunt for a unique supplier of Wool carpet, a proven distributor that stocks the most luxurious floor coverings. Turn to a trusted team like Regency Carpets they supply some of the finest Wool carpet in the UK and theyâ€™ll have the perfect type of floor covering that will add a sense of luxury to your home.

Consider the weight and the twist of your new Wool carpet

When you buy wool carpets this should be one of the first things that you take into account. Ask your Wool carpet supplier about the weight of the Wool carpet, top quality products tend to be 40 or 50oz.

Next consider the manufacturer of the Wool carpet and the blend of materials they use. The finest Wool carpet will have 80% wool and a 20% polypropylene twist and theyâ€™re suitable for heavy domestic use. Establish the quality of the Wool carpet and the colour options should be the next thing on your mind.

Where will the Wool carpet be laid?

Thatâ€™s an important point to mull over when youâ€™re choosing the colour of your Wool carpet. Is it w to fit a light shade of Wool carpet in heavy foot traffic areas, would a slightly darker colour be better in this circumstance?

Remember, your supplier of Wool carpet will be able to provide you with plenty of guidance when you buy wool carpets from their store. Get them to call round to your home with a few sample books and this will give you a greater idea of how the Wool carpet will look before you commit to paying for a full priced floor covering.

Donâ€™t be rushed into buying a Wool carpet though. Take your time; weigh up all the facts and youâ€™ invest in a carpet thatâ€™ll provide you with many years of pleasure.
