A hanging light can be lighter than a chandelier but with the same opulent effect by Alxe Burch

Article published on June 1st 2012 | Home Improvement

There are many home lighting shops in Singapore and these are very popular among home owners doing up their homes as well as with interior decorators and architects looking for unique and functional lighting solutions for their clients. Home lighting stores in Singapore have the best modern lighting solutions to match every kind of decor and budgets. There are stores with online sites that feature their designs and a browser can go through these catalogues and find what suits their dÃ©cor. Even someone looking to redo their lighting themselves will find professional sites that will guide you through the process of choosing the right types of lighting for their homes or offices or any other commercial space.

Some of the home lightings Singapore stores have state of the art lighting solutions that can be used even for large commercial areas. With supplies directly from manufacturers these lightings are available online at very good discounts. Some of the more popular designs are LED downlights and hanging lights. LED lights are popularly used in lobbies and in exhibition halls where a passageway needs to be lit or an exhibit has to be highlighted. These LED downlights are also popular in homes and their swivel design makes them handy to be fitted just about anywhere. A hanging light looks great at the entrance of a home or an office and gives an impression of opulence. Some hanging lights are simpler and can be easily used even in dining areas to give a soft lighting effect.

While lights for any area depend on the space available and the kind of requirement for the room, one can now order samples of the lights from some online sites to see the actual effect. These samples can be ordered and viewed and if approved then a further order can be placed. A popular site in Singapore to order lightings from is DesignCatalogue. This company has a wide selection of the best range of lights and also has design consultants who are available to help with all kinds of queries. The option of ordering samples is a unique one and allows a client to be sure of the choice. All products on the site have a warranty of 90 days and are sourced from the best lighting manufactures.

Whether you need new lights for your kitchen or soft lights in the living room, browse through the company site to find LED downlights, lights in various shapes and made from various materials, modern as well as traditional designs and even variety for the hanging light that you have always wanted. Invest time in browsing through this catalogue and find the best crystal chandeliers at great prices and where suitable products are displayed by rooms with details on each light clearly mentioned.
