Article Side
Appealing layouts for your garden sheds by Canberra Marketing

Article published on December 3rd 2011 | Home Improvement

The most widespread and widely used garden shed designs in the market today are the frame type and barn sheds. There are also many other styles such as pet barns, playhouses, cottages, pool cabanas, or a miniature version of your own house. When looking at garden shed designs, one should thoroughly verify what each shed company has to offer.

For a garage shed where intended to park small vehicles, bikes, motorbikes, and even cars, there are shed kits that come in various sizes available. Garage sheds are also designed to house auto repair tools, parts, provisions, and regular cleaning equipment. Since garage sheds are valued for their rugged interior quality, exterior designs are usually small and simple. Outdoor garden sheds designs for automobiles need to have a tough foundation. You may choose from concrete, concrete block, lumber, brick, or plywood to support the entire structure. Choose a roof height that gives room for people to move in and out while the doors may be single, double, or plain roll ups. Garden shed designs must include large windows to encourage proper ventilation inside the shed.

The second most popular garden shed design is used to construct large scale green house sheds. Just like household garage sheds, outdoor structures for plants need good ventilation because of the wide spread use of pest sprays, fertilisers, insects, and soil mixtures. It is a good idea to build a shed near a water source for superior plumbing capabilities and preservation. Green house sheds must include a long work bench, and hooks to hang garden tools, and also a good amount of shelves. Be sure to double check that the roof is made of either plastic or glass, to allow adequate sunlight to pass through. The best flooring for a custom greenhouse is concrete. Hooks also come in handy for baskets and ladders. A continuous source of electricity is also a must for greenhouse sheds as well as to operate plumbing fixtures.

Depending on the type of outdoor shed you wish to have, opt for accessories to make garden shed designs even more interesting. Items such as alarm systems, motion detectors, and storage units should always be purchased separately from shed kit manufacturers rather than from your local home and garden store. Wooden shelves must be installed or consider purchasing storage containers to better organise the necessary items to be stored.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/home-improvement-articles/appealing-layouts-for-your-garden-sheds.htm - Article Side

Canberra Marketing - About Author:
Linda Jackman has been working on thousands of a garden sheds designs since the last 15 years. Contact her for a customised design for your a garage sheds or any other types of garden sheds.

Article Keywords:
garden sheds, garage sheds, sheds

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!