Article published on February 25th 2012 | Home Improvement

There are several advantages provided by the automatic toilet seat cover and this makes them ideal for usage when the same toilet is shared by several different people. The problem of hygiene is quite big when a toilet is shared by unknown people all through the day as is the case in public places. That does not mean there is not an issue in offices where several employees tend to use the same toilet. In all these scenarios, you would really benefit from the hands free toilet. In that case, a simple push of a button activates a motor that causes a fresh and clean sanitary cover to encapsulate the toilet seat completely..

Firstly, the toilet appears much cleaner than what it would be without the cover. Secondly, you do not have to touch anything with your hand which minimizes the chances of spreading germs. In fact, the automatic cover that encapsulates the toilet seat on its own helps to a great extent in preventing the spread of common infections, which would otherwise be possible when people have to touch the toilet seat-, covers..

The seat covers are automatically refreshed every time a new person uses the toilet, ensuring that there is better hygiene. These kinds of toilets have been installed across thousands of locations especially in public places where the chances of spreading of germs are the most. Work places can also benefit from such automatic seat covers specifically because many employees use toilets during the day and are concerned about contagious infections which always start from such places. The automatic functioning of seat covers ensures that they are effective even in case of negligent users who usually ignore most of the recommendations for hygiene that are provided to them.
