Early advertising for memory foam concentrated almost exclusively on the health benefits that it provided but it may have left consumers thinking that it wasnâ€™t for everyone. Today however, if you buy a king size memory foam mattress or any other size from the range at Zleeps, youâ€™ll understand why a mattress of this kind is perfect for every single person on the planet.

A unique design makes it the perfect combination of comfort and luxury and memory foam works to provide a sleeping surface that is as unique as you are. As soon as you lay down on the surface, the upper layers of foam start to react to your body heat right away and in a very short space of time they will become pliable. Soon, they will mould around your body and â€˜memoriseâ€™ its shape, tailoring itself to you as an individual.

All the time this is happening, the lower layers of your memory foam mattress stay completely solid and this provides you with all the support you need during the night.

Itâ€™s this unique combination that makes memory foam so good for back sufferers and thatâ€™s why doctors and physiotherapists would heartily support your decision to by a king size memory foam mattress. However, it also offers such supreme comfort that it gives you the best possible chance of achieving a peaceful nightâ€™s sleep.

There are other health benefits to memory foam as well and all of the mattresses in our range are completely hypo allergenic and this means, amongst other things, that they are completely resistant to dust mites; a fact that can only help you with your sleep pattern.

The absence of springs in the design is useful from a safety aspect too and you would be amazed at how many night time injuries are caused by faulty bed springs. This also makes a memory foam mattress easier to carry around and put in place and when you eventually decide to replace it, its spring free design is kinder to the environment too. Here at Zleeps we firmly believe that you wonâ€™t find a better memory foam mattress at a cheaper price.
