Article Side

Concrete Staining Provides Beauty with Functionality of Any Concrete Floor

by Jack Kevin

Article published on January 31st 2012 | Home Improvement

Concrete has been used for years in a wide variety of applications, including floors, dams, patios, bridges, walkways and more. It has an exemplary record for superior strength, cost effectiveness and durability for any application that requires the same. You can find concrete floors and nearly any residential setting as well as industrial, whether it is a warehouse, mechanic shop, food packaging, pharmaceutical and much more. However, interior concrete is generally laid and then covered with carpet, linoleum or hardwood flooring. Also, exterior surfaces do not allow for the use of carpet, hardwood flooring or linoleum, because simply does not make sense. For this reason, many people opt for brick, slate or granite, to give their standard concrete a unique flair. Some people simply cannot afford to add this bit of decorative panache to their standard concrete, or it is simply not functional because of the application.

Therefore, one exemplary alternative is to cover your concrete with a variety of stains or colorants that will make your concrete surface not only decorative, but maintain its functionality. When you choose to treat your concrete with a stain or a colorant, it can create an exemplary variety of textures and color, or you can have it stamped with your own unique pattern, such as a logo, particular shapes and more. concrete staining can also create unique patterns that mimic more traditional flooring, such as marble or hardwood floor planks. The end result of this will provide you with a stunningly beautiful concrete floor, that can showcase your creativity, all while maintaining its durability, economy and practicality.

Concrete flooring will last a lot longer than carpeting, linoleum or any other material that is used to cover it up. Carpet and vinyl are subject to damage from flooding, wear and tear, staining and more. In addition, anyone that suffers from allergies in their home can appreciate the issues associated with carpet, because of the harboring of dust and mold in the carpet fibers. This makes installing a decorative concrete floor much more sensible than other floor coverings. It does not matter if you have a new slab of concrete, or an old one, you can have these concrete staining finishes applied that will last the lifetime of the concrete. They are extremely durable, easy to maintain and best of all, very sanitary.

There is an extraordinary array of effects that are possible with your concrete staining. Whether you simply want to color the walkway to match your landscape or architectural features of your home or business, it can be done for you. On the other hand, if you prefer, you can also have your concrete stamped with specific shapes or other concrete staining, to give the appearance of granite, slate, marble, hardwood flooring and more. This can create an exemplary number of textures and colors, and you can also have grout placed within the joints. In so doing, you can imitate terra cotta or just present to the world a colorful and abstract floor, that makes a statement for you without saying a word.

Article Source:
http://www.articleside.com/home-improvement-articles/concrete-staining-provides-beauty-with-functionality-of-any-concrete-floor.htm - Article Side

Jack Kevin - About Author:
Learn more about how a concrete staining can create a unique and beautiful accent for any application.

Article Keywords:
concrete floor finishes, concrete floors, concrete staining

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!