Carpets are an important accessory for any well furnished home. Calling a specialised steam cleaning company to clean your carpets is likely to protect your family against diseases and will add a fresh look to the decor of the house. The important decision to take when you are having your carpets cleaned is to decide the method to be used. Knowledgeable carpet cleaning technician can help you make a better choice about the method with which to clean your carpet. The carpet cleaning technician will assist you in determining whether your carpets are well-suited to particular cleaning methods and if stains will require deep stain removal methods. The most widely accepted carpet cleaning methods used to clean carpets are steam cleaning, dry cleaning and deep shampoo. Each carpet cleaning method is different and each has its set of own advantages. Getting the best carpet cleaning results mostly depends on the skill of the cleaning technicians. When you hire a professional carpet cleaning company you have to make sure their technicians are professional and experienced. It is the knowledge and experience of the carpet cleaning technician that help to get your carpets cleaned and stain-free.

Steam Cleaning â€“ This is commonly known as the hot water extraction method and is the most common carpet cleaning method used by qualified carpet cleaning technicians. It requires the use of hot water cleaning solution with a wet vacuum. Professionals employ either a transportable heavy powered steam cleaning machine or a truck mount for this purpose. This option is really efficient in cleaning dirt from beneath the carpet and also removes minor stains. Some carpet cleaning technicians prefer the truck-mount machine on a simple basis that it's easier to heat and vacuum.

Dry cleaning â€“ Carpet dry cleaning is considered a safe carpet cleaning solution since it has no risk for soap residue or heavy solutions. The carpet cleaning technician applies dry powder over the area of the carpet to be cleaned and vacuumed. More carpet cleaning companies are currently focused on the use of natural powders only.

Shampoo Cleaning - This method employs the use of specialised shampoo solutions. The shampoo soaks up the dirt separates it from the carpet. The technician will then complete dirt elimination by means of a heavy motorised engine. Aeration time tends to be faster with this system than others.
