Functional Laundry Room Storage Options that Reduce your Frustration by Nick Demiro

Article published on February 3rd 2012 | Home Improvement

Nobody likes having to do their laundry. It just isnâ€™t an enjoyable activity. The worst part about doing laundry is just how long it takes. If you have even just two or three loads, that is going to take up hours of your day. You canâ€™t even go out to run errands for any length of time, because if you wait too long between washing and drying your clothes, they are going to get musty and smelly.The best thing you can do is find ways to occupy your time while waiting for your clothes to wash and dry. It doesnâ€™t have to be that bad. Thirty minutes is just enough time to catch up on last nightâ€™s episode o Parks and Recreation on your Hulu. You could also use that 45 minutes it takes to dry your clothes to read a chapter or two of a book.

By occupying your time while doing laundry with something fun, it turns a chore into something relaxing. But before you can enjoy that time spent waiting, you need to get your laundry room in order.The reason that people get so frustrated while doing laundry is that they canâ€™t relax in between loads. Junk piles up all over the laundry room, and you end up wasting all of your time getting things out of the way just so you can have some room to fold your clothes.

Before you can start taking advantage of the time it takes to do a load of wash, you need laundry room storage solutions so that you can make the most of you time. The laundry room organizers are great ways for you to turn your messy laundry area into an efficient place to not only clean your clothes, but also to take a deep breath and relax.

Commercial Laundry Cart

Of course if you are reading an article about laundry room storage then it is safe to assume that you have a laundry room of your own. That being said, it is also probably likely that at one point in your life you had to go out to a laundry mat. This might have been during your college years, while you were starting out in your first apartment, or even just while you were on vacation. Wherever you happened to do your laundry outside of the home, you probably noticed the convenience of the commercial laundry carts that you found at many laundry mats. They were convenient for a vast number of reasons.

One of the best features of commercial laundry carts is the bar located at the top where you can hang your dress shirts and pants. Everybody knows that if you hang or fold your clothes fresh out of the dryer, then you wonâ€™t have to iron them later. The bar on top of a commercial laundry cart is ideal for getting your clothes hung up right away. Of course these carts also have a handy located directly beneath the hanging bar. You can use this to just throw all your laundry right into to fold elsewhere or you can fold them right out of the dryer and stack neatly in the basket.

This laundry cart even has an additional bottom storage shelf to store even more of your laundry needs. The commercial laundry cart is made out of high-grade metal that is covered with a shiny chrome finish. It is even set on durable casters so that you can easily roll it from room to room. Get the most out of your laundry area with the commercial laundry cart.

Laundry Caddy

One of the worst things about going out to do your laundry at a laundry mat is having to haul not only your laundry with you, but all of your laundry needs as well. In most cases people donâ€™t even worry about it, and waste money on single use packages of detergent, dryer sheets and more. The great thing about doing your laundry at home is that you have all of these things available to you. The problem with this is that they quickly add up and end up taking over your laundry room. You end up with a cluttered laundry area, with no room to fold your clothes and little chance you can find what you need!

The laundry caddy is an excellent solution for keeping all of your laundry needs stored away in one place. You can put your iron, bleach, detergent, dryer sheets, and many more things on three compact shelves. Each shelf has a sturdy rail so nothing can fall out. It is also set on dual track casters so you can roll it in and out from between your washer and dryer. Donâ€™t get stressed out every time you walk into your laundry room and find a mess there. Make the most of your space and have an area you can relax in with these laundry room storage solutions.
